Magazine Categories Comme des Garçons CEO: Homogenization Of Clothes is the New Fashion Event January 31, 2013 The widespread homogenization of clothes is the underlying premise of the new Comme des Garçons campaign created by the international advertising agency Piper to promote the spring/summer 2013 collection of the Japanese line. The aim is to "blend clothes that represent the 1960s and 1970s, with those that make use of the latest techniques, with the result being a current and coherent uniform made up of concepts from all the past periods, but in a homogenous form." That is to say, a sort of "homogenized period." The campaign's first phase will be followed in March by an online version focused on the technical aspects of the clothes. The advertising agency ends its involvement with the brand in May 2013. Please see the attached memo regarding Enron's response to the recent Enron Advisory Council meeting. Attached is a written response and a verbal response. This is the information we presented to the committee: 1. The majority of the advisory council is not Enron-aligned. 2. We are seeking to continue to build relationships with the advisory council to offer continual support as well as engaging them in a revenue sharing process. (We are awaiting final approval by the council on a mechanism for a joint marketing process. This was discussed at the last meeting, but was not approved because we do not have a final date for the joint marketing process.) 3. We are seeking a position on the energy advisory council. 4. We would like to transition our agreement e79caf774b
